

Social Security bill 'doubling payroll tax' passes Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate approved a Social Security financing bill Friday night that would more than double the maximum annual payroll tax paid by workers over the next 10 years. Many employers would face far greater increases.

The bill, passed 42 to 25, is similar to a plan President Carter proposed to shore up the financially troubled pension system.

A House-Senate conference committee will work out differences between the measure and the House-passed version, which would triple some workers' taxes over the next decade.

The Senate voted to increase the amount of money an elderly Social Security recipient may earn without losing any of his or her pension. The House version is more generous, eliminating the earnings limit entirely in 1982.

Here are unofficial estimates of the taxes in the two bills. The figures include tax increases already written into current law:

$10,000 WORKER

The tax now is $585 a year. Both bills would raise it to $605 in 1978. Under the Senate bill the payroll tax on this worker would total $6,612 from 1978 through 1987, or $357 more than without the bill. The House version would result in a total of $6,580, or $325 more than current law.

HIGH-PAID WORKER

Currently, no worker pays an annual Social Security tax of more than $965. That maximum is paid only by those earning $16,500 or more. Under the Senate bill, by 1987 the maximum wage subject to tax by an employee would be $33,900, for a top tax of $2,407, and a 10-year total of $17,189. That is $1,988 more than without the bill.

In the House bill, the maximum wage subject to employee tax in 1987 would be $42,600, resulting in a maximum tax of $3,025. The tax over the next 10 years would total $21,391, or $6,191 more than current law.

EMPLOYER

The employer now matches the employee's share of tax, a practice that would be continued under the House bill. Under the Senate bill, that tradition would end in 1979, when an employer would be liable for a payroll tax on the first $50,000 of each worker's wages, or a top tax of $3,068. In 1985 the maximum taxable wage would soar to $75,000, meaning a top tax of $5,288.

Social Security is in trouble because of a declining birth rate and high unemployment, which reduce contributions to the system, and high inflation, which increases payments. The problems were compounded by a 1972 congressional error which had the effects of giving some beneficiaries double cost-of-living increases to compensate for inflation.

The Senate bill corrects that error, as does the House version, by reducing benefits that some future retirees would receive otherwise. Sponsors say the Senate bill would keep Social Security income and pay-outs in balance for the next 75 years.

One of the most emotional Social Security issues is the earnings ceiling, which limits the amount Social Security recipients may earn without losing any of their pensions. An effort was made to eliminate the ceiling.

Wildcat strike shuts off electricity in millions of homes, offices

Lights go off all over Britain

LONDON (AP) — Buses lurched through darkened Trafalgar Square as lights went out in much of Britain Friday in a wildcat go-slow strike by power workers.

Electricity was shut off to millions of homes and offices on a chaotic day of rotated power cuts — often without warning.

Rush-hour commuters heading for their trains at London's Charing Cross Station formed long chains behind those wise enough to bring flashlights to negotiate their way.

At least one death was linked to the

Carter postpones 4-continent trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has decided to postpone his four-continent trip until after Congress completes work on an energy program that probably will not be finished before mid-December, it was learned Friday night.

Officials said the administration was considering rescheduling the trip early next year.

Press secretary Jody Powell said Carter's decision will be announced next week. The president is scheduled to make a televised energy address Tuesday night and the White House has broadly hinted he will announce cancellation of the trip then.

Carter had planned to start the trip on Nov. 22.

"Our hope is that if we have to postpone, the host governments will disruption as cuts hit different parts of the country for up to three hours at a time.

An 80-year-old woman, Mrs. Doris Yates, was burned to death as she tried to keep warm during a blackout by using a portable gas heater which exploded, fire officials and neighbors said. She had borrowed the heater when her electric heat was shut off.

Elsewhere, Britons ate cold meals by candlelight, hospitals postponed non-essential operations, and roads were snarled by the sudden failure of traffic signals. Health authorities made special arrangements for kidney patients to use generator power for their dialysis units.

British soccer teams rescheduled their matches today for earlier daylight hours to avoid floodlight outages.

In defiance of instructions from their own unions and appeals from the government, leaders of the unofficial strike said they were ready to "flatten the country" by shutting down all power stations if management carried out a threat to stop their pay.

The strikers appeared more conciliatory at an evening news conference, when one leader said he hoped "a solution could be found soon. We are looking for a mediator to try to resolve our grievance."

The government's National Advisory, Conciliation and Arbitration Service said it would not intervene and told the strikers they had to use normal union channels. This route appeared blocked because the unions have condemned the wildcat slowdowns.

The strikers from four different unions — engineering workers, electricians, transport, and municipal — are seeking travel allowances, higher shift pay and concessionary prices for their own home electricity.

The go-slow action began to bite on Wednesday and by Friday was affecting 80 of the country's 137 power stations. The strikers are mostly maintenance men and coal-shovellers, and the majority of the nation's 90,000 power workers were not involved, according to the Central Electricity Generating Board which runs the country's state-owned electricity network.

The power cuts were ordered by the Electricity Board because of a backlog of maintenance work at power plants, officials said.

British Rail, the nationwide passenger train service, kept most trains rolling by drawing power from areas not affected by cuts. But local outages affected signalling equipment and many commuters suffered long delays. Train despatchers called train departures through bullhorns at Charing Cross station, just off Trafalgar Square.

London subway trains ran normally on their own power generators, London Transport said.

275,000 U.S. employees will be paid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate approved a resolution Friday to guarantee that some 275,000 federal employees will receive paychecks, despite a congressional deadlock over the use of federal money to pay for abortions.

The money for the government paychecks is included in an appropriations bill for the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare, but that bill has been stalled for 2½ months because the House and Senate cannot agree on when federal money can be used to pay for abortions under federal medical aid programs.

The Senate Appropriations Committee, irate over House rejection of a compromise proposal on the abortion issue, had urged the Senate on Friday to attach the rejected compromise language to the resolution aimed at freeing the federal paychecks caught in the dispute.

But the House adjourned Friday, beginning a three-week recess, and the Senate turned down its committee's recommendation and gave approval to the payroll resolution.

In exchange for that approval, House leaders promised to "do everything possible to work out an agreement" over the abortion dispute, said Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash.

Major progress told in Lockheed strike

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A major breakthrough was reached Friday in the 4½-week strike by aerospace workers against Lockheed Corp. facilities in five states.

Under prodding from a federal mediator, Lockheed and the International Association of Machinists agreed to return to corporate-wide bargaining for the first time since Oct. 5.

plants in Burbank and Palmdale in Southern California and in Sunnyvale in Northern California.

Five thousand workers at Lockheed facilities in Marietta, Ga., Charleston, S.C., Meridian, Miss., and Clarksburg, W.Va., went on strike Oct. 19 after talks showed no progress.

"I think it's encouraging," IAM spokesman Neil Vandercook said Friday of the company's agreement to return to the bargaining table on the company-wide wage and seniority issues that prompted the walkout. "Now we can really get down to strike issues."

Jim Ragsdale, a spokesman for Lockheed-California, agreed, adding, "We hope we can get the strike resolved as soon as possible."

Since talks on the general issues broke down Oct. 5, bargaining has continued sporadically on local issues.

Meteor in Michigan

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — A meteor flashed across the Michigan sky Friday afternoon, dazzling viewers from Muskegon to the Mackinac Bridge with its brilliance.

Officials at the Robert T. Longway Planetarium in Flint said the meteor was unusual because it could be viewed in bright sunlight. Robert Victor, staff astronomer at Abrams Planetarium in East Lansing, called the event "a rare occurrence" that occurred only once in several years.

Several witnesses told state police in Houghton they saw "a brilliant multi-colored fireball."

A Roscommon County deputy said he saw a "large ball of fire with a long tail" heading toward the northeast at a steep earthbound angle.

One witness told state police the meteor was "15 times brighter than any star."

"They are coming back to meet the community they left on a sour note," said Joe Breck, administrative director of the Colorado Springs VisionQuest.

Four old wagons, refurbished by the youngsters, and 38 horses and mules formed a circle within shouting distance of the fences of the Zebulon Pike Detention Center, the county juvenile facility where many of youngsters had been before.

"Just now the impact hit me," said Scott, a 14-year-old who said he had been in 22 juvenile detention centers at one time or another. "Look at the people behind that fence. I'm not going to be there again."

The wagon train was the idea of Bob Burton, a former Las Vegas, Nev., juvenile worker who started VisionQuest four years ago. It left Tombstone, Ariz., 25 miles from the Mexican border, on Sept. 1. Few of the 28 boys and seven girls on the journey had any previous experience with horses or the outdoors.

There were 37 VisionQuest staff members and counselors on the trip to deal with those problems when they surfaced.

WASHINGTON (AP) — American and Soviet negotiators are "less than 100 apart" in agreeing to a new ceiling on nuclear weapons carrying missiles, a high administration official said Friday.

The two sides were known to be talking about a possible 10 percent reduction in the tentative ceiling of 2,400 such weapons, negotiated in 1974 at Vladivostok by former President Gerald R. Ford and Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev.

In the context of weapons reduction of that size, a disagreement of close to 100 might be considered significant. However, the official, who declined to be quoted by name, talked optimistically about prospects for a new strategic arms limitation agreement.

The official also spoke hopefully about efforts to reconvene Middle East peace talks in Geneva.

Grim-faced judge visits van used in Chowchilla kidnaping

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Grim-faced and carrying a lantern, a judge walked into the dirt-encrusted van Friday where 27 kidnap victims from Chowchilla spent 16 hours imprisoned underground.

Superior Court Judge Leo Deegan said not a word as he surveyed the 27-foot moving van filled with filthy mattresses, bedding and matted dirt which fell into the vehicle when the 26 children and bus driver escaped.

The three defendants in the non-jury kidnap trial, their hands clasped in front of them in handcuffs, stood silently outside the van with sheriff's deputies guarding them. The parents of two defendants were among the group of spectators and reporters who witnessed the viewing in a warehouse at the Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center.

Defendants James Schoenfeld, 26, Richard Schoenfeld, 23, and Fred Woods, 26, have confessed to kidnapping the children and their driver and then burying them in the moving van for 16 hours in July 1976.

But the defendants deny they caused bodily harm to their captives, a charge which would bring them life sentences with no chance of parole if they are convicted.

Defense and prosecution attorneys also watched silently as the judge toured the warehouse, peering into two smaller panel trucks which transported the victims to the moving van where they were entombed.

"This is the way the van was found," a sheriff's officer explained to the gathered group. He said it was buried four feet underground level in a Livermore gravel quarry.

The condition of the van verified stories told by the kidnapped children when they testified earlier this week. The van was so filled with mattresses, there barely was room to move around. Thick mesh wire covered the walls and ceiling for no apparent reason.

Only a tiny hole in one wall allowed air to enter through a garden hose which was piped above ground.

The trip to Santa Rita by a 30-car caravan of court participants was conducted as a formal court session.

Hughes estate case is set for long run

HOUSTON (AP) — A Harris County probate judge said Friday the scheduled Nov. 14 trial of the Howard Hughes estate case could continue into March.

"It is going to be hard to say, but I would imagine it will take a week or two just to get a six-member jury," Judge Pat Gregory said.

"I think, depending on the degree of proof put on by the proponents and contestants of the will, I think the trial could last up to March and maybe longer."

The trial is to determine the legal residence of Hughes and the validity of the purported Mormon will.

It was expected to be the final pre-trial conference.

that names Noah Dietrich, a former long-time aide, as executor of the estate.

Hughes, 70, died April 5, 1976, while being flown from Acapulco, Mexico, to a Houston hospital.

Gregory talked with newsmen after a closed door conference with about two dozen lawyers involved in the complicated case. All parties in the case have been placed under a strict gag rule and the lawyers, including Texas Attorney General John Hill, scattered quickly as Gregory talked with newsmen.

Sturgis harassment charges are dropped

NEW YORK (AP) — Coercion and harassment charges against Watergate burglar Frank Sturgis were dismissed Friday after authorities said they could not substantiate ex-spy Marita Lorenz's allegations that Sturgis had threatened her.

Sturgis, who served a prison sentence for the Democratic national headquarters break-in which evolved into a scandal that later forced ex-President Richard Nixon to resign, was arrested here Monday in Miss Lorenz's apartment.

She told police he was trying to force her to change the story she told federal investigators about a conspiracy to assassinate the late President John F. Kennedy, reportedly that she and Sturgis were involved in the alleged plot with Lee Harvey Oswald and others. A presidential commission concluded that Oswald, acting alone, killed Kennedy.

In Manhattan Criminal Court on Friday, Alan Broome, assistant district attorney, said his office reviewed seven tapes of telephone conversations between Sturgis and Miss Lorenz and found no evidence of coercion or harassment.

"A lack of any substantiation of her charges impairs her credibility," Broome said. He moved that the charges be dropped, and Sturgis' lawyer, Henry Rothblatt, concurred. Judge Edwin Torres dismissed the charges.

Market in L.V. robbed

More than $4,000 was taken by a bandit armed with a sawed off shotgun from Tonopanga Meat Market in La Verne Friday afternoon, police said.

Owner Norberto Marin told officers the gunman burst into the store at 1912 Arrow Highway at midafternoon demanding all his cash. With Marin was his wife, Angelina, and clerk Jesus Muro.

Police said the anglo bandit between 25 and 35-years-old, grabbed money Marin handed him and fled. No getaway car was seen.

WWII women pilots also gain benefits

Senate bill to hike aid to veterans in school

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed a bill Friday increasing financial aid for veterans in school and permitting women who were pilots in World War II to qualify for the same benefits as male pilots.

The measure, passed by voice vote, now goes to President Carter. The House passed by the compromise legislation by voice vote Thursday.

The bill would raise monthly payments for veterans and dependents in school by 6.6 percent. It also would increase the amount veterans may borrow for school. For those who are graduated, part of such loans would be forgiven.

Under the bill, monthly payments to a single veteran would increase from $292 to $311, payments to those with one dependent from $347 to $370, and payments to those with two dependents from $396 to $422.

The maximum of the loan program would be raised from $1,500 to $2,500 per school year. Repayment would not be due until after the veteran completes school.

A new feature in the bill would provide forgiveness of up to two-thirds of the loan over the $700 initial cost.

The bill would allow extensions for veterans who cannot complete school in the required 10 years after leaving military service because of mental or physical problems.

Others who were unable to complete their education within the 10-year limit would be eligible for the loan program.

members of the Women Air Force Service Pilots formed in 1942. They ferried planes 70 million miles, tested new jet aircraft, towed live-fire targets and performed other duties as civilians under military discipline.

The WASPS contend they never got the officer commission they were promised and thus got no military discharge.

Under the bill, they could qualify for benefits if the Pentagon certifies that they served in active duty and grants them honorable discharges.

Probe of Brown's Health, Welfare Agency is urged

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Three Republicans Friday called for an investigation of Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s Health and Welfare agency after Reader's Digest reported the Mexican Mafia had infiltrated programs financed by the state.

In a news story Friday sparked by the Reader's Digest article, the Sacramento Bee said Health and Welfare Secretary Mario Obledo urged in a meeting attended by Brown and other top officials that "one program that is really corrupt" should be located and closed down to show that the administration is serious about cracking down on abuses.

Davis said he did not recall any comment of that sort, and Obledo did not respond to several requests for comment on either publication's report or on the call for an investigation.

But Gray Davis, the Democratic governor's chief of staff, said he had personally contacted the district attorneys of three counties conducting investigations of the Mexican Mafia and "was assured there was no evidence of wrongdoing" by any officials in Obledo's agency.

The magazine described reports related to the Ellen Delia murder and other investigations that linked the prison-based gang to state and federally financed convict rehabilitation and drug programs.

Mrs. Delia was reported on her way to a meeting with state officials at which she intended to describe how state funds were being misused East by Los Angeles social programs.

Tests show saccharin could cause cancer

WASHINGTON (AP) — New laboratory tests show that saccharin is a potential cause of cancer in humans. However, the artificial sweetener is one of the weakest cancer-causing agents ever detected, says a congressional report.

The report further said current testing methods, including controversial high-dose animal tests, "can predict that a particular substance is likely to cause cancer in humans."

The Office of Technology Assessment (OTA), the scientific advisory arm of Congress, said its study found there is no present way to make reliable estimates of human cancer risk from using saccharin.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., requested the study to aid Congress in its future decisions on whether to overrule the Food and Drug Administration, which wants to ban the sweetener as an additive to food and beverages.

Shortly after the report was released, the Senate passed and sent to the White House a bill to block an FDA ban for 18 months.

The measure, passed by the House on Thursday, also requires products containing the artificial sweetener to bear labels warning that saccharin has been found to cause cancer in laboratory animals.

The OTA commissioned 12 short-term laboratory tests on saccharin as part of its evaluation, the first time many of the tests were conducted on the chemical. These tests examine a substance's capacity to cause mutations or genetic change in bacteria and animal cells, an indication that it might also cause cancer.

Of 12 tests, saccharin was positive in three, suggesting that the chemical is a potential carcinogen or cancer-causing agent, the report said.

Ontario businessman Donald K. Moran, 62, was found dead near his office of a gunshot wound in the head Friday afternoon, police said.

Officers said a note was found in Moran's car at D.K. Moran Co., a pipe supply firm, complaining of ill health. A witness who told police he was about 300 feet away, said he saw Moran standing in an alley, put something to his head, then fall.

A .22-calibre rifle was found next to the body at 610 E. Holt Ave., officers said.

Childhood diseases target of attack in immunity program

"California kids — love them; immunize them!" is the slogan adopted by the Immunization Advisory Committee as it launches an all-out attack on childhood diseases within Los Angeles County.

Dr. Annabel J. Teberg, medical director of the Los Angeles County Department of Health Services, has appealed to all school superintendents to help enforce the school immunization law.

In addition, the committee has organized the distribution of 100,000 flyers containing clinic information and 25,000 brochures with immunization information through school districts, shops, drug stores and PTA health chairmen.

California law requires each child entering school for the first time to present evidence of having been adequately protected against polio, diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough and red measles. The state Department of Health also recommends that all children be immunized against German measles and mumps.

Some students may be legally exempt from the immunization requirements for personal beliefs or medical reasons which must be documented in the student's school health file.

The county Department of Health Services has established a pilot program to develop short and long range goals aimed at 100 percent immunization of all eligible school children.

The Pomona Health Center, 750 S. Park Ave., will sponsor a free immunization clinic Wednesday from 5 to 7 p.m.

In addition, free immunization clinics are operated on Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 8 to 9 a.m. and from Mondays through Fridays from 3 to 4 p.m.

'Bank examiner' con game foiled

By JACK BURSON
PB Staff Writer

The "bank examiner" confidence game failed in La Verne this week when the intended victim became suspicious.

And authorities warned the attempt means that someone is working the territory.

The theft attempt Thursday began when the confidence man called the victim, a 73-year-old La Verne woman, said he was employed by a bank, and inquired about her checking account balance on the pretense there was a "foulup" with the bank's computer.

When the woman replied she had more than $1,400 in the bank, the caller told her that apparently someone had been taking money from her account.

He asked her to go to the bank, withdraw $1,400, and then return home. The caller said he would go to her home, give her a receipt for the cash, and use it in the investigation of the bank.

But the intended victim became suspicious and called relatives, who notified police.

Before police were able to develop a program to apprehend the caller, he again contacted the intended victim. She told him of her suspicions and he hung up.

The La Verne woman said the caller sounded very professional on the telephone and was convincing. But she became suspicious because of the speed he demanded regarding the transaction.

'Unity through music' theme of boys program

"Developing Intercultural Unity Through Music" is the theme of a new Multicultural Exchange Training (MEET) program being offered by the Pomona Boys' Club.

Al Ramirez, recently appointed educational director, will supervise the many facets of the program.

Ramirez said that free music lessons, with emphasis on guitar and voice instruction, is available to any boy or girl after school Monday through Friday.

Also offered as a public service to any public or private school, youth or adult civic organization, church or business establishment by the Boys' Club are motivational demonstrations of "Multicultural Music Education."

The demonstrations detail the African, Latin-American, Oriental, Western European and religious influences found in different songs heard in the U.S.

A multilingual training program that eventually will involve a variety of languages will be scheduled for young learners, with emphasis on Spanish and English being offered first.

To carry out the first phase of the music program, the club needs musical instruments.

"A piano and a dozen guitars for the hundreds of youngsters who already belong to the club would do wonders to enrich the training and enhance the recreational activities being offered," said Russel Archambault, club executive director.

Archambault said that the club's services and facilities are available to all youth living in the area.

Additional information on any program may be obtained by phoning the club at 622-1614 or 623-8489.

GRAND OPENING

Pomona may have best year

If housing tract activity continues at its present rate through November and December, the city of Pomona could have its best year in building valuation totals since 1962 and 1963 when figures topped the $27 million mark each year.

Figures released by the city Department of Building and Safety show that 68 permits were issued for houses in Pardee tracts in the Westmont area and the Anden Corp. tracts in north Pomona with a building valuation of $2,387,477 for October.

That figure combined with 125 permits totaling $150,476 for dwelling additions and alterations, and other permits brought the October valuation to $3,546,380, and boosted the 10-month total to $22,192,807.

By comparison, the city issued permits totaling just $8 million for all 12 months of 1976.

The largest single permit for October was $202,910 for an industrial building at 748 E. Bonita Ave. for CWR Properties, Los Angeles. The 19,716-square-foot facility will be built by Mena Construction Co., Westlake Village. Permits were issued to Pardee Construction Co. for 37 houses on Spruce View Drive, Redbud Place, Goldfield Place, Sequoia Glen, and Phillips Drive.

The houses will range from 1,094 square feet to 1,513 square feet and have a building valuation of $29,000 to $38,000.

Permits were also granted to Anden Corp. to erect 30 houses on Fulton Road, Shadyoak Court, Pinewood Court, and Deerbrook Street in the northern part of the city.

Those houses range from 1,260 to 1,640 square feet and have a building valuation of $32,332 to $40,958.

Upland bookstore excels in contest

The Bookworm of Upland was a third prize winner in the Scholastic Children's Book Section Contest.

Bookstores were asked to submit a photo of their children's book display to be judged on originality, design appeal, sales potential and consumer appeal. The judges included Scholastic's art director, marketing director, trade sales manager and a 10-year-old child.

The purpose of these meetings is to receive as much community input as possible relative to the needs of the school physical plants, from existing and projected buildings to playground equipment," said James Popovich, the district's planner/analyst who serves as liaison between the committee and the Pomona school board.

The committee has been meeting weekly since Sept. 28 to assemble

Pomona Mayor Charles Bader was on hand this week for traditional ribbon cutting festivities at Walkers Department Store, 450 Pomona Mall East. Waiting to usher customers into the building are Dale Schoonhoven, president of Walkers, and Louis Craig, vice-president. Walkers offers a selection of popular name brand items for the holiday season.

Piedmont Mesa

Some residents oppose annexation to Claremont

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

A group of residents in Piedmont Mesa is opposing the annexation of the 260 single-family home area to the city of Claremont.

"Let's stay as we are," said Herman Wente, a resident of the area who is among those opposing the annexation on the Tuesday ballot.

The area is bounded by Williams Avenue, Base Line Road and Oak Creek Wash and has 548 registered voters. It is now a part of Los Angeles County.

Wente pointed out that if the area is annexed to Claremont, the homeowners will be required to assume their share of the bond indebtedness of the city. This includes the 1956 and 1963 park bonds and the 1972 police bonds.

Those in opposition also say they have been informed by city and county officials that it will cost approximately $2,000 per house to connect to the city's sewer system. The area now has septic tanks for each home.

Wente says that in addition to the hook-up charge, residents would be required to pay a sewer user charge each month.

According to Wente, the residents opposing the annexation are satisfied with the level of protection offered by the county sheriff's and fire departments. The fire service would remain the same, but police protection would be provided by Claremont if the area is annexed on Tuesday.

Valley Z Clubs to host conference

Members of Z Clubs at Ganesh High School in Pomona and Claremont High School, and the Pomona Valley Zonta Club, will host a District IX Z Club conference Nov. 12-13 at the Times Training Center north of Brea.

Z Club members from California, Arizona, Hawaii and Arizona will attend. "77 Club Members Will be Members of Excellence" is the conference theme.

Marguerite Thoreson of the Pomona Valley Zonta Club, is conference chairman.

The schedule includes a series of workshops exploring creative, productive hobbies, and work sessions focusing on service and earning money, as well as training for club members and officers.

A perpetual silver trophy will be awarded to the club which presents the best skit. There will be square dancing.

At the Saturday night banquet, two women swimmers will share their experiences of international competition, the excitement of Olympic involvement and travel to foreign countries.

Student officers for District IX will be elected for the coming year.

Currently Patty Ubara, president of the Fontana Z Club, is district president, and Laurie Fredrickson, president of the Claremont Z Club, is vice president.

Miss Fredrickson will host a delegate from Hawaii, Lori Solodynka, who will spend a week in Claremont.

The Fontana club will present a breakfast fashion show at the conference on Sunday.

Committee seeks public's advice on school plants

The public is invited to attend a series of meetings scheduled by the Citizens Planning Committee surveying facility needs in the Pomona Unified School District.

Each meeting will be held in one of the district's three cluster areas.

The first is scheduled for Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Pomona High School library.

The second meeting will be held on Nov. 16 at 7:30 p.m. in the Garey High School library, and the third will be on Nov. 22 at 7:30 p.m. in the Ganesh High School cafeteria.

"The purpose of these meetings is to receive as much community input as possible relative to the needs of the school physical plants, from existing and projected buildings to playground equipment," said James Popovich, the district's planner/analyst who serves as liaison between the committee and the Pomona school board.

The committee has been meeting weekly since Sept. 28 to assemble and study information about district facilities. A preliminary report was presented to the school board on Nov. 1. Information obtained at the public meetings will be considered before the committee develops its final report.

Committee members include Clyde R. Stephens, chairman; Ken Pine, vice-chairman; Robert L. Abernathy, Nellie Crockett, Laura Pilchier, Fred Ramos, John W. Ridley, Shirley Robbins, Jo Sigler and Carl B. Winfrey.

Guitar lessons

The La Verne Recreation Department will sponsor a guitar class starting Nov. 21 from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Classes will be held on Mondays and Wednesdays for six lessons. Basic instruction will include chording, picking, strumming, chord reading and song writing.

Donations of 50 cents for adults will be accepted.

Marines plan apprenticeship programs jobs with journeyman rating.

The apprenticeship program will provide separating or retiring Marines with documented records of training in an apprenticeship occupation.

Acceptance of Marine-trained apprentices in private industry will enhance employment opportunities for the veterans and motivates Marines to advance in their fields while on active duty.

The

acceptance of such credentials permits former Marines to become more productive immediately after an orientation period.

Under the new agreement, Marines who sign up for the program will complete Marine Corps qualifications, and at the same time complete a formal apprenticeship program patterned after those in private industry.

The program is open to Marines of all pay grades in certain occupational specialties, and completion of training will qualify the specialists for equivalent civilian charge accepted.

Marines, as registered apprentices, will be able to obtain the same credit for Marine training through those programs as their civilian counterparts.

Thus, a Marine apprentice will be earning credit towards the requirements for a journeyman status in nationally recognized apprenticeship occupations.

For additional information on the program, persons may phone

Gy/Sgt. Phil Rivera, the Marine Corps recruiter at 300 S. Park Ave., Suite 150, Pomona.

Russ activist group asks for end to death penalty

MOSCOW (AP) — A group of Soviet human rights activists has sent an appeal to parliament asking that the death penalty be removed from the penal code.

The petition proposed the Kremlin take the opportunity of the 60th anniversary of the Russian Revolution to abolish capital punishment, a move it said "would show all peoples and governments a great example of good will and love of man."

Executions are not discussed publicly and rarely are mentioned in the press. But Soviet law provides for capital punishment in cases of treason, murder, hijacking, attempted escape across Soviet borders and serious economic crimes. Other special articles provide for capital punishment in the armed forces. It was extended in 1954 to cover intentional murder under aggravated circumstances and in 1971 was broadened to include economic crimes.

A United Nations survey in 1975 found that 104 countries had provisions for capital punishment in their penal codes. The U.S. Supreme Court has found the death penalty unconstitutional in murder cases, but only Gary Gilmore, shot in Utah last January, has been executed in the United States in the past 10 years.

"Just maybe we will get some kind of response to our petition," said one of the Soviet activists. "This subject should not be surrounded by silence."

California's giant orange co-op under fire from FTC

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The stark, gleaming white building alongside one of the world's busiest freeways may be just as important to 70 per cent of the California and Arizona citrus farmers as their trees.

The three-story building in the Los Angeles suburb of Sherman Oaks houses Sunkist Growers, Inc., the 84-year-old cooperative which says it markets 70 per cent of the Arizona and Western States' orange crop, and large quantities of other citrus as well.

The name Sunkist, stamped only on the cooperative's top of the line fruit, has become so well known throughout the world that clandestine traders in Hong Kong reportedly are using hand stamps in the marketplace to put the trademark on oranges which don't meet the cooperative's standards.

Jack Heeger, a spokesman for the cooperative, contends that Japanese buyers recognize the Sunkist trademark stamped in English.

Enormous size in the marketplace is another Sunkist trademark, but now the Federal Trade Commission recently has filed a complaint contending that Sunkist "has achieved and maintained a monopoly in the western fruit industry through anticompetitive means."

Among allegations are that Sunkist has withheld from the market a large supply of lemon products with the purpose or result of stabilizing prices. The FTC also object to Sunkist's exclusive contracts which prevent commercial packers from doing business with anyone else if they want Sunkist's business.

The cooperative responds that the organization is a cooperative, not a corporation, owned by its 7,500 grower members and that Congress has encouraged cooperative marketing of agricultural products. Sunkist fully complies with federal law, the cooperative contends.

A hearing on the matter is pending in Washington.

Sunkist, which grew up from the Southern California Fruit Exchange formed in 1893, may be the world's largest nongovernmental marketing cooperative selling agricultural products under its own brand name. Similar, although smaller, grower cooperatives include Sun Maid raisins and Sunsweet prunes.

The west produces the vast majority of American eating oranges, although the Florida crop, mostly earmarked for juice, is larger overall.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture predicts that during 1977-78, California and Arizona will harvest 52 million 80-pound boxes of oranges versus Florida's 164-million box yield.

In Florida, where most of the juice is produced, cooperatives have gained less of a foothold. In that state, an estimated 45 to 50 per cent of the 18,000 growers belong to 30 cooperatives, says Florida Citrus Mutual, a statewide association.

Sunkist's production is concentrated in a 1,000 mile strip of citrus growing in patches down the center of California from north of Sacramento to the Los Angeles metropolitan area, the belt swings west and heads into Arizona, where the prime growing areas are the Yuma and Phoenix areas.

In its turf, Sunkist is affiliated directly with 45 citrus packing houses and holds licenses with 39 other commercial packing facilities. Besides fresh fruit, including oranges, grapefruit, lemons, tan-gerines and a few limes, Sunkist processes fruit into concentrate and other soft drinks for domestic use and export. Byproducts, such as orange peels from Sunkist-operated processing plants, are ground up into animal feed.

In the 1975-76 fiscal year, Sunkist had $452.3 million in sales.

For the grower, who Heeger says farms an average of 40 acres each, there are both apparent advantages and disadvantages to hooking up with the cooperative.

At the top of the plus side is the efficiency of cooperative marketing. The grower arranges for delivery to a nearby packing house. At Sherman Oaks and at 37 sales offices around the country, a computer network matches up buyers with supplies ready to be picked or waiting at packing houses.

Member growers are given the benefit of pest control information and are given the option to join the Fruit Growers Supply Co., a related cooperative open only to Sunkist members. This affiliate enables the

Brass use of planes criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) — High ranking military and civilian officials systematically misuse military aircraft and have kept some Air Force pilots so busy flying generals they had no time for required combat training, Pentagon auditors said Thursday.

The Defense Audit Service made the finding in a report that said the military and civilian defense officials use military planes for personal trips or for low priority missions at an annual cost of at least $52.3 million.

The report was made public by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who cited it as an example of flagrant waste.

The secretary of defense last year ordered that the military's "special air mission" aircraft be used only for official business and only when commercial transportation was not available. But Clement E. Roy, deputy director of the audit service, said military aircraft continued to be improperly used.

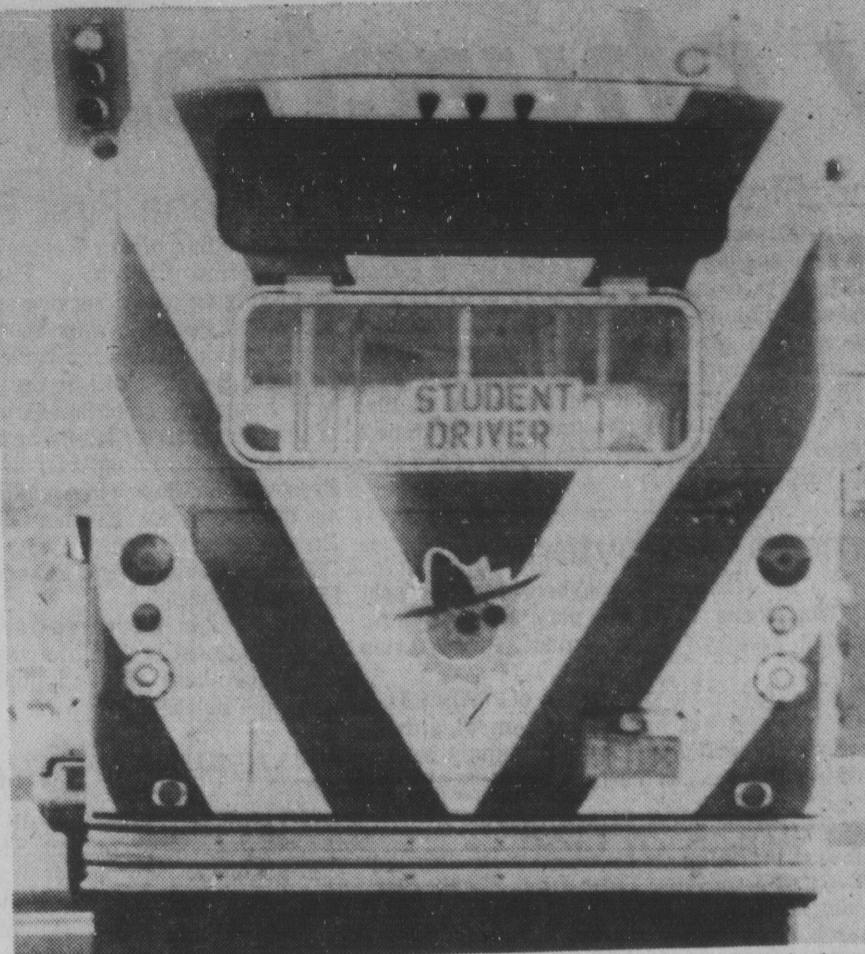

The audit examined the improper use of aircraft by the Air Force, Army, Navy and Marine Corps at military installations around the world. It found rank to be the most important factor in obtaining a free military flight, not the relative importance of the mission involved.

"The stature of the traveler should not be a factor unless specifically authorized," Roy said.

The report said the Air Force's 104 T-39 jet trainers primarily were at the call of senior military and civilian officials and were used extensively for other non-training missions.

It said the Air Force programmed 111,000 flight hours for its T-39s in fiscal 1977, far more than the 33,000 hours required for readiness training. That cost an estimated $26 million in excess flying time and some 24 million gallons of aviation fuel.

The auditors reported that while the pilots were flying such missions safety regulations prevented them from accomplishing the training, which requires multiple landings, one-engine landings and high level flight.

LEARNING THE ROAD — Motorists usually try to stay out of the way of a student driver, but when the student is handling a city bus, staying out of the way is a bigger problem. The Phoenix Transit Co. has been sending some student drivers out to get experience.

Maybe you didn't notice it

Average water use: 172 gallons

WASHINGTON (AP) — You probably didn't notice it, but you used about 172 gallons of water around your home yesterday. And you'll do it again today.

The U.S. Geological Survey also reports that the average use of water from public supplies is continuing to increase.

Almost all of this water is used by individuals for home use although usage by some industries and commercial establishments is included in the category.

In 1970, the Survey reported, the use of water from public supplies amounted to 166 gallons per person. In 1975, the figure had grown to 168 gallons per person. Since then, water usage has gone up about two percent per year, the Survey estimates.

So where did all the water go?

For starters, a bath would have consumed 30 to 40 gallons while a shower would have taken 20 to 30 gallons. Every flush of the toilet consumes four to six gallons and it takes 20 to 30 gallons to do a load of laundry. Washing dishes takes eight to 10 gallons of water while a leaky faucet can waste 10 gallons an hour.

Running tap water for the garbage disposal or to get it hot or while shaving uses about two gallons of water per minute.

And then there's water for the lawn or garden — lots of water in some parts of the nation and in some months of the year.

Actually, the home use category is only a small part of the nation's overall water use. Overall use rose to 2,000 gallons per person this year, but was not growing as fast as in previous years, officials said.

The Survey assesses American water use every five years. The figures released Thursday showed average use of about 420 billion gallons of water a day, or 1,900 gallons per person, in 1975. This water was used for public supplies, commerce, industry, irrigation and rural water supplies. A regional breakdown of the water consumption report was not immediately available so the report did not assess the impact of the western drought on consumption there.

"The 420 billion gallons per day represents a 12 percent increase in off-channel water use since 1970 and about a 110 percent increase since we first started making estimates in 1950," said C. Richard Murray of the survey's national center in Reston, Va.

But, Murray added,

Claremont graduate sings with ensemble

Anita Kennedy of Cedarview, is performing with "Middle Earth," a 12-member vocal ensemble sponsored by California Baptist College.

Selection was based on a series of auditions conducted by director, Bruce Langford.

"Middle Earth" B madrigal type ensemble, will feature a program of classic and contemporary selections. Miss Kennedy and fellow members will also receive music scholarships.

Miss Kennedy, a music major with a psychology minor, is a 1976 graduate of Claremont High School. While attending Claremont High School, she was named the "Most Outstanding Female" in the vocal department, was a member of Chamber Singers and served as Concert Choir president and accompanist.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Kennedy.

Churches sponsor parley

Joining with the other Lutheran and Reformed churches of Chino, Christ Lutheran Church is helping sponsor a "Conference on Things to Come" Sunday, from 2 to 5 p.m. at Ontario High School auditorium. The clergy of Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic church will give an invocation. Six lectures covering portions of the total spectrum of Bible prophecy on last things will be presented by the participating pastors with two intermissions. The conference represents the historic Biblical view of the church.

The Lord's Supper is to be celebrated at Christ Lutheran Church at the 8:15 and 10:45 a.m. services. Refreshments will be served after each service.

Chino First Baptist Church

Dr. Robert Wilson, pastor, said the Rev. Ralph Showers, founder and president of Rainbow Acres Ranch of Camp Verde, Ariz., will be guest speaker at the 11 a.m. service Sunday at Chino First Baptist Church.

Mr. Showers, who received his bachelor of science degree in psychology from Arizona State University and a master of religious education at the American Baptist Seminary of Covina, left the pastoral ministry to pursue a life-long dream of starting a ranch for handicapped people at Camp Verde.

Claremont Presbyterian

The cast of "J.B." (Claremont Playhouse) will present the Thanksgiving scene from the play at the 9 a.m. worship service Sunday at Claremont Presbyterian Church.

At a 9:30 a.m. forum, a discussion of "What Is a Homosexual?" will be led by Dr. William Sigurdson. Elder John Connolly will lead the Bible study series, "Prophetic Heroes of the Old Testament."

Chino Church of God

The Frank Abram Crusading Team from Phenix City, Ala., will conduct revival meetings Sunday through Nov. 13 at the Church of God in Chino.

Meetings will be held at 6 p.m. on Sundays and 7:30 p.m. on remaining nights.

Evangelists Frank and Barbara Abram have ministered in 34 countries, including Russia. They have film containing scenes of the persecution of Christians in Russia today.

Mr. and Mrs. Abram speak and sing.

San Dimas First Baptist

A film from Underground Evangelism will be shown at the First Baptist Church, San Dimas, Sunday at 7 p.m. It is entitled, "At Any Cost." It tells the story of Christians behind the Iron Curtain — their trials and tribulations and their faithful witness to Christ.

Filmed inside Russia and in West Europe, it traces the growth of the persecuted church despite Communist oppression.

Montclair Assembly of God

"Shiokari Pass," a film from the producers of "The Hiding Place," will be shown at Montclair Assembly of God Church Sunday at 6 p.m.

Rev. Gertrude Tuntland, Minister

Pomona First Presbyterian

The meeting of the Women's Association of the First Presbyterian Church of Pomona will open with a Thanksgiving praise service arranged by Mrs. Kathleen McCain of Pomona, when members meet on Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. in the church parlor.

"Inner Beauty" will be the topic of a presentation by Mrs. Irene Ekkens of San Dimas. Mrs. Ekkens, the wife of Rev. Alfred Ekkens, assistant program director at Pacific State Hospital, is secretary at Village Presbyterian Church in Arcadia. She will be accompanied at the piano by Eleanor Farrell, organist for the Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. McCain and Mrs. Ekkens are both members in the Pomona Church.

Mrs. McCain is a retired teacher and has been active in the educational program at the Pomona Church.

The members of the Lamplighters Circle Five will serve the luncheon.

L.V. Heights Presbyterian

The La Verne Heights Presbyterian Church will hold its fall congregational meeting Sunday at 7 p.m.

The program will include a multi-media slide show on the church, presentations of the new budget, election of elders and deacons, entertainment and fellowship. Child care will be provided.

Pomona Unity Church

The Pomona Unity Church will host a series of discussions on the book, "Your Erroneous Zones," by Dr. Wayne W. Dyers.

30th year for St. Paul's

St. Paul's Congregation-Church, Claremont will celebrate its 30th anniversary Sunday at the 11 a.m. service.

The founding pastor, the Rev. G. Russell Graham, will preach the sermon and relate the church's early history.

The Rev. Robert S. Fleischmann, second minister of St. Paul's and now minister of Duluth Minnesota Congregational Church, will contribute a special message sent from Duluth. Harry Pribble will be guest organist. Annie Leyden and Kevin Rullman will sing a song especially composed by them for this occasion. Following the worship service, a fellowship hour has been arranged by Mrs. George Reuter, Women's Service League president.

St. Paul's was founded in November, 1947, with its first service held in the chapel of the Norton School for Boys (now Claremont Collegiate School). Later services were held in the Claremont Woman's Club house until January 1959 when the congregation moved into its present sanctuary at 616 S. Sycamore Ave.

Observances of St. Paul's founding will be continued during November. On Nov. 13, Dr. Joseph M. Applegate, the church's minister, will preach and serve communion with Reverend Graham at the organ providing special music at the 11 a.m. service.

Nov. 20 will be observed as Youth Sunday, with youth minister Steven Erkel preaching, Lynne Nevins as guest organist, and a special message by former youth minister, the Rev. Kenneth Hanson, ordained at St. Paul's June 1959 and now a Ph. D. candidate at the University of Edinburgh in Scotland. Nov. 27 will be dedicated to the on-going service of St. Paul's and the future. Dr. Applegate will preach.

Ford to be judge

BELFAST, Ireland (AP) — Former U.S. President Gerald R. Ford, an Episcopalian, has been named one of the judges in the annual $86,000 Templeton prize for contributing to progress in religion.

He will serve on a nine-member international panel of judges. Ford succeeds the Rev. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale.

Three CLAREMONT MEN'S COLLEGE students have won an all-expense paid trip to Washington, D.C. They are among 10 students selected to represent California at the fourth annual Business Tomorrow Conference, Sunday through Tuesday.

Chosen on the basis of their study interests and leadership potential, the students include Joel Susek from Denver, Colo.; Sloan Citron from Amarillo, Tex.; and Ron Mis from Milwaukee, Wis. All are members of the Claremont Colleges student organization designed to provide students with insight into the business world.

Delegate from SCRIPPS COLLEGE is Kristi Nilson of Hollywood.

Business Tomorrow, sponsored by the Foundation for Student Communication, Inc., will bring together college students, business representatives, and academicians to discuss the modern economy and its future. The theme of this year's conference is, "The Future of the American Market System."

The BLOY EPISCOPAL SCHOOL OF THEOLOGY, a part of the School of Theology at Claremont, has a new president.

He is the Rev. Charles U. Harris, dean and president emeritus of Seabury-Western Theological Seminary, Evanston, Ill.

Bishop Robert C. Rusack of Los Angeles, who had been president of Bloy, will continue as chairman of the board.

The Episcopal school emphasized weekend education for vocation people who may want to switch careers into the ministry.

President Harris was secretary of the drafting committee on the Holy Eucharist for the Proposed Book of Common Prayer. He is an active archaeologist in the Middle East and is a member of the executive committee of the American Schools of Oriental Research, Jerusalem.

A pledge of $25,000 has been made to the AMERICAN ARMENIAN INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE in La Verne by Haig Berberian, former owner of Haig Berberian, Inc., a walnut processing plant in Modesto.

The pledge was made during a meeting in Modesto between Berberian and Dr. Armen Sarafian, president of LA VERNE COLLEGE, Dr. Yeghia Babikian, director of the AAIC, and Nora-Norman Sarafian. Berberian expressed an interest in the construction of the proposed Armenian Study Center to be built near La Verne College.

Berberian has been instrumental in cultivating the Armenian heritage in the U.S. In past years he has made large contributions to Armenian projects and institutions, including a $500,000 donation to the new St. Peter Armenian Church in Fresno.

Born in Turkey, Berberian came to the U.S. in 1923. He settled in Boston, Mass., and undertook a variety of jobs, including work in a grocery store, shoe factory and later as a paper bag salesman.

Berberian came to Modesto in 1943 and began work with a cousin in a walnut dehydrating operation. In 1947, Berberian began his own walnut packing and processing business, which eventually flourished into the largest of its kind.

Spartans repeat

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Staff Writer

Damien High's football team is beginning to repeat itself.

A virtual replay of last week's game against Chino, the Spartans led by two touchdowns after a quarter and three TDs in the second quarter on the way to a 22-13 victory over Claremont at Citrus College Friday night.

Adding to the repetition, Damien clinched at least a share of the San Antonio League championship for the third consecutive time in Dick Larson's three years as head coach of the Spartans.

Now sporting a 6-0 league record, Damien could give Larson his first uncontested SAL title with a victory over Ganesha Thursday. The La Verne school (7-1 on the season) leads Chino and Ganesha by a game and fourth-place Claremont (4-2, 5-3) by a pair.

Ball control helps Giants

By PAUL CLICK
PB Correspondent

Ganesha High improved its San Antonio League record to 5-1 Friday night by controlling the football.

The Giants, who celebrated their Homecoming with a 20-0 decision over Upland High at Mt. San Antonio College's Memorial Stadium, outgained the Highlanders 256 to 97 in total yards.

The Ganesha defense was another key factor in the contest along with four costly turnovers by the Scots' offense.

Upland was held to a single yard in the second half by the Giants' defense after collecting 96 in the opening half. Upland backs were dropped seven times in the second half for a minus of 20 yards.

Ganesha produced three touchdowns via the run as the Giants piled up 233 yards on 45 rushing plays.

The Giants only successful pass play set up their first TD after an Upland fumble. It was a razzle-dazzle type of play as the third back on the reverse (James Murdock) threw a pass flagged by Phil Kranenburg at the Upland 1-yard line.

Floyd Williams, who rambled 32 yards for the Giants' final TD, gained 120 yards on 16 running attempts. Bennie Gooden added 57 yards on 12 carries and quarterback Ron Hughes picked up 33 yards.

The key to the ballgame as far as the Highlanders were concerned was the turnovers. Upland had two scoring opportunities go down the drain on fumbles. A 17 play march by Upland was thwarted at the Giants' 10 on a clutch interception by the Ganesha secondary.

Upland was able to move the ball against Ganesha with mis-direction running plays. The Giants stopped Upland's straight runs cold and Mike Klaric used the short pass (2, 4 and 7 yards) to good advantage to advance Upland down the field before the interception.

But Ganesha's defense shut down the Upland attack in the third quarter and was stingy with yards throughout the final two quarters of play.

Ganesha applied good pressure on the Upland passing game in the final 30 minutes. Klaric was 6 for 7 in the first half for 55 yards. He was held to eight yards as he connected on 1 of 5 passes during second half action.

Mike Zenda was the Highlanders' top ball carrier with 30 yards on 10 carries.

The Giants were guilty of seven penalties for 98 yards and one pass interception. They also lost two fumbles to Upland which kept the Scots in the contest until Williams fourth quarter sprint of 32 yards into the Upland end zone.

James Edwards scored 19, Earl Tatum 16, Lou Hudson 14, and Kermit Washington and Nixon 11 each for the balanced Laker attack.

Wilkes sparks Lakers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jamaal Wilkes and Norm Nixon sparked a fourth-quarter spurt Friday night as the Los Angeles Lakers withstood an Indiana rally to beat the Pacers 111-99 in a National Basketball Association game.

Los Angeles led 86-73 going into the fourth quarter, but the Pacers, led by Mike Bantom, roared back and cut the margin to just six points at 93-87 before Wilkes hit a 20-foot jump shot. Nixon hit a lay-in and Wilkes stole a pass for another lay-in.

Damien was also missing a starting offensive back, halfback

Wilkes wound up with 24 points, 10 rebounds, 7 assists, and 4 steals in leading the Lakers to their fourth victory against 5 defeats. Bantom scored 23 for the Pacers, who are now 3-4.

The Lakers, for the ninth consecutive game this season, were outscored in the fourth quarter, this time 26-25.

James Edwards scored 19, Earl Tatum 16, Lou Hudson 14, and Kermit Washington and Nixon 11 each for the balanced Laker attack.

But Reds ignore whole thing

Dodgers, Angels active in free agent draft

NEW YORK (AP) — Let the bidding begin.

Baseball's annual winter auction of free agent talent was underway today following the re-entry draft, and player agent Jerry Kapstein thinks it will be the last chance for teams to make substantial improvements in their rosters through this route.

"This will be the last time for a long time that ownerships will be able to markedly strengthen their teams through this draft," said Kapstein.

"I agree with the people who feel there are far fewer quality players available this year than there were last year," Kapstein continued.

"And with so many top players signing multi-year contracts, I firmly believe that next year there won't be this much talent available."

"In October, fans don't care where a team has gotten its players from—whether from the free agent draft or trades or within the organization. Fans are just concerned with their ball clubs winning, and the free agents showed last season that they could help clubs reach that goal."

Last year, Kapstein had 10 of the top names in the draft. This year, five of his clients were on the shopping lists of the major league clubs, including four of the better names. The players were slugger Richie Zisk and pitchers Rich Gossage, Ross Grimsley and Rawly Eastwick.

Gossage, Grimsley and Eastwick each were chosen by the maximum 13 teams and Zisk was picked by 12 clubs, after informing several other teams that he simply was not interested in playing for them.

Kapstein said he was on his way to his offices in Springfield, Va. "There are a number of clubs who already have contacted me and some meetings are in the works," he said.

The most popular players in the early part of Friday's draft were outfielders Lyman Bostock and Larry Hise, teammates last season with the Minnesota Twins, and pitcher Mike Torrez of the New York Yankees.

All three were chosen by the maximum 13 teams, with eight of Bostock's selections coming in the first round. Hise and Torrez were each chosen four times in the opening round.

Two other players, outfielder Oscar Gamble and pitcher Terry Forster, also were drafted by the maximum 13 clubs.

Bostock is represented by an Oakland agent, Abdul Jalil. The agent said he had appointments today with the California Angels, Texas Rangers and San Diego Padres. But Angels Vice President Buzzy Bavasi denied that any such meeting had been scheduled with Jalil.

California and Texas drafted Bostock in the first round and San Diego picked him on the second round between tabbing Torrez as their first choice.

Toronto made Bostock the draft's No. 1 selection, and after Atlanta chose Torrez, Oakland and the New York Mets, drafting 3-4, both named Bostock, whose .330 batting average last season was third highest in the major leagues. The Twins paid Bostock $20,000 last season, barely over the major league minimum. The intensive early draft interest in him almost assures that the bidding will produce a sevenfigure contract for the 26-year-old outfielder.

Cincinnati passed on every round of the draft, following the policy set a year ago by team President Bob Howsam.

Los Angeles (AP) — It's enough to send Knute Rockne spinning in his grave.

When Lincoln High School football coach Skip Lorea met with his team at halftime Friday, the RailSplitters were losing to Wilson High 63-0.

There was no impassioned speech from Lorea, no shouting. He didn't conjure the spirits of Lincoln heroes past.

Wilson's Coach, Vic Cuccia, couldn't understand why the Lincoln RailSplitters split. Looking at the score, he assured reporters that he had planned to use second-stringers in the last half.

Coach Lorea was not available for comment.

The city's sports information officer, Jerry Weiner, said no team had ever quit a game under such circumstances.

As for Wilson High quarterback Ron Cuccia, the first half was enough. He hit 34 of 39 passes for 509 yards and seven touchdowns. He also carried six times for 38 yards and a touchdown.

Leos, Stags, 'Hens are all underdogs

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

The local SCIAC colleges, La Verne, Claremont-Mudd and Pomona-Pitzer all will be underdogs in their games tonight.

All three are on the road. The Leopards journey to Redlands. The Stags visit Occidental while the Sagehens confront co-leader (with Redlands) Whittier on the Poets' home field.

Pomona-Pitzer at Whittier, 7:30 p.m.

The Leos probably have the best chance of scoring an upset as Redlands might overlook La Verne since the Leopards lost Brad Frick last week.

Of course, the Leos are down what with two conference losses and their best runner, Frick, out for the season.

"I have a feeling everybody might lose one game," said La Verne

Seaver deal hurt Reds?

CINCINNATI (AP) — Tom Seaver may be the future savior of the Cincinnati Reds pitching staff, but his mid-season arrival may have hurt more than it helped, says All-Star second baseman Joe Morgan.

"All our pitchers were trying to pitch like Seaver. They can't. No one can," said Morgan.

"Don't get me wrong. It's going to be the greatest thing that ever happened. But at that particular point we were making our usual run. I think Tom's effect on the other pitchers was detrimental," Morgan said in a copyrighted article by Tom Callahan of Combined News Service.

coach Roland Ortmayer. "Although, after playing Whittier, I think they might beat Oxy and Redlands. They really shut us down and they have lots of momentum now."

Redlands leads the league in offense with an average of 335 yards a game. But the Leopards are second in defense (behind Whittier) holding their opponents to 250 yards.

Halfback Dave D'Arcangelo is the league's leading rusher with 685 yards. But the Leos' Ben Morrow has a better average gain, 4.6 yards to 4.2.

The Leopards' freshman quarterback, Mark Beatty, is still hampered by an ankle injured in the Cal Lutheran game.

"I imagine Beatty will start," said Ortmayer. "But how long he plays depends on how well his ankle holds up. I won't stay with him as long this time."

At Occidental, C-M will face a team averaging only 98 yards rushing per game.

"Oxy threw 51 times against Redlands last week," said coach John Zinda. "We hope they can't generate any more running than they have so far."

Zinda's team will have to stop quarterback Tom Hamilton and wide receiver Rick Fry, the top aerial combination in the league. Hamilton has completed 119 of 232 passes for 1515 yards and 10 touchdowns. Fry has 63 receptions for 944 yards.

Last year the Stags beat the Tigers, 31-24.

At Whittier, Poets coach John Godfrey is trying to play up the distractions of Homecoming. But the only way his team could lose to hapless Pomona-Pitzer would be if his entire squad became deathly ill. A loss to the Sagehens would make Godfrey deathly ill.

About the only thing the 'Hens have done the last three years is lay eggs. In five games this year, they have been outscored an average of 36 to 7.

They are averaging 76 yards rushing and 142 yards passing per game. At the same time they are giving up an average of 288 yards rushing and 134 yards passing per contest for an average of 421 per game.

Owls in M.C. showdown tonight

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

for Saddleback in their clash tonight with Citrus.

"If Saddleback beats Citrus and we beat Saddleback when we meet them next week, we can win the conference," the Panther skipper said.

Of course, if the Owls win tonight, they will have the inside track on the M.C. title and a berth in the Mission Bowl. Citrus has already beaten Chaffey.

Citrus and Saddleback have staged some real thrillers in recent years and tonight's game probably will be no different.

Saddleback has shown a super-tough defense and an explosive offense in its Mission outings to date. That offense has been paced by a pair of Yancy is the leading passer in the conference, while Speicher is tied with Chaffey's Marcus Jennings as the loop's leading rusher.

Both Speicher and Jennings

Drugs for mental patients debated

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Should a mental patient, no matter how disturbed, have the right to refuse drugs that may relieve his tortured mind at the risk of harmful side effects?

A legislative hearing on the issue Thursday found most psychiatrists who testified were firmly opposed to such a right for patients involuntarily held in state mental hospitals.

"If we stop using those drugs we will be back where we were 25 years ago with 33,000 patients in the state hospitals," said Dr. George Bajar, a county mental health psychiatrist.

Another psychiatrist, Dr. Richard Griffin, executive director of the Conference of Mental Health Directors, said that given the right to do so, the "vast majority" of mental patients would refuse psychotropic (mind-affecting) drugs, leaving doctors no choice but to go to court in an effort to get orders for drugs in individual cases.

The issue was raised in a preliminary report on California's mental health system drawn up by Teknekron Inc. of Berkeley, which is conducting a two-year study for the Assembly subcommittee on mental health and developmental disabilities.

With evidence appearing that many patients in nursing homes and mental hospitals are overdrugged and are not adequately monitored for side effects, the report suggested that the Legislature might want to make a law giving patients the right to refuse drugs.

Two psychiatrists appearing before the subcommittee, chaired by Assemblywoman Leona Egeland, D-San Jose, noted that drugs do not help all patients and can cause such side effects as apathy, restlessness, drooling, shuffling and a sometimes irreversible condition called tardive dyskinesia in which the patient makes uncontrollable movements of his mouth and limbs.

Karen Freedom of the Network Against Psychiatric Assault (NAPA) said that as a former mental patient she found the drugs did her more harm than good. Saying she was now a "radical therapist" who had had good results by allowing patients simply to "go with their feelings" in a room by themselves, she advocated treatment without drugs.

Tom Kraus, a representative of an association of skilled nursing homes that care for mental patients in non-hospital settings said he opposed the idea of allowing patients to refuse drugs. But Kraus, speaking for the 102-member California Association of Health Facilities, agreed with witnesses who said that people in nursing homes don't get sufficient attention from physicians to ensure that their drug regimens are appropriate.

Pomona, California ■ Saturday, November 5, 1977

What's 'Gnu' at the zoo? . . . • (Story on pages 6-7)

Doc PeirsonIt happened in Pomona

In August, 1904, the Supreme Court of California handed down a momentous decision which was the reason why today Pomona has a First Street running East and West almost the full width of the town. It all came about in that year, 1904, when the Southern Pacific railroad company decided to construct a secondary track along First Street. But our Pomona City Fathers weren't about to knuckle down to the mighty railroad barons. Fearlessly they brought suit against the Southern Pacific for possession of that right of way, contending that the railroad had dedicated the land to the city between the years 1875 and 1896 for use as a highway and consequently was not entitled to retract that dedication. The Supreme Court, after hearing all the arguments, agreed with that contention and Pomona finally took full possession of First Street. It was a decision which, by setting a precedent, was also responsible for a loss to the Southern Pacific railroad company of several millions of dollars in real estate in towns all the way from the Oregon border to Colton. Think about that the next time you go breaking the speed limit along our First Street crosstown artery.

chessCHESS LORE

After failing to win the Lone Pine International and the U.S. Championship tournaments, Walter Browne came through, when it counted the most, to take the U.S. (closed) Championship for the third straight time. His winning score was 9-4.

Robert Byrne, who dogged Walter's heels, after losing to him in the first round, drew even with one round to go. But in his final game, Browne scored a brilliant sacrificial victory over the youngest American grandmaster Larry Christiansen, while Byrne could only draw with Bernie Zuckerman.

Notable was the gritty 3rd-4th place tie finish with John Grefe by Sammy Reshevsky, who transcended age and his serious illness of two years ago to finish with a strong 7½-5½ score.

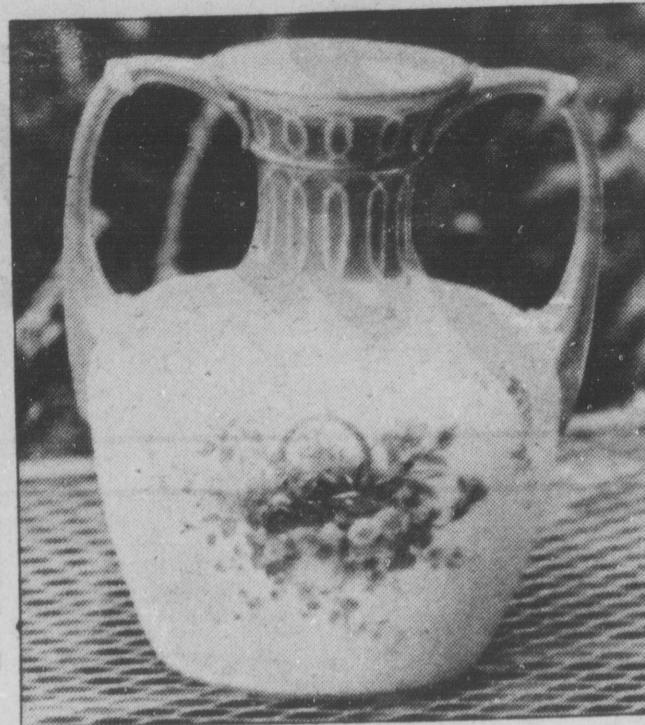

Other scores: Zuckerman, Lein 7-6; Tarjan 6½-6½; Christiansen, Matera 6-7; Peters Ghizdavu 5½-7½; Shamkovich 5½-7½; Soltis 8-13; Fedorowicz 4½-8½.

ANTIQUE VASE*Antique-wise*Antique vase is family 'heirloom'

By Dorothy Hammond

QUESTION: Enclosed is a photo of a lovely vase which has been in our family for as long as I can remember, and that is a long time. It is in perfect condition.

As indicated in the photo, tiny fruits in low relief decorate the garland. The colors are exquisite. Although the mark on the bottom is faded, I believe it reads: Made in Austria, Royal Wetina. These words appear around a vase-like mark on which the letters RW are printed. Can you give me the approximate value of this vase? Mrs. H.F.P.

ANSWER: Your vase was made after 1891 and similar examples found in antique shops are priced in the $65-$85 range.

QUESTION: We have been admiring a glass known as "Phoenix Glass" at antique shows. I am wondering if you could tell us something about it — when it was first made and where? The shade we have seen most and admire is the pale sculptured lavender. Mrs. J.E.L.

ANSWER: The Phoenix Glass Company of Water Cure (Beaver) Pennsylvania has produced various types of glass wares such as bottles, art glass, lampshades, etc., from the 1880s. Their popular sculptured glass which vaguely resembles cameo glass in decoration, wasn't produced until the 1930s, and because of the interest in this ware production continued until the mid-1950s.

QUESTION: I am enclosing two photos of a small maple spinning wheel that my great grandfather made in 1885. The wheel is 22 inches in diameter and the overall height of the spinning wheel is 38 inches. It is complete and in perfect running order. Could you please tell me how much these are selling for? Mrs. J.R.P.

ANSWER: Small spinning wheels in this condition usually sell under $150 in the Midwest.

QUESTION: I have a family heirloom — a signed Mount Washington melon ribbed shaped cracker jar decorated with pink and yellow flowers. The plated silver fittings, like the glass jar, are in fine original condition. Can you tell me what these are selling for in antique shops now? Mrs. B.T.

ANSWER: From $200-$235 in most areas.

QUESTION: As I have been unable to learn the value of a very old doll that belonged to my mother, my sister thought we should write to you. We have a genuine Grace Storey Putnam Bye-Lo doll baby, just over 12 inches long. This little dear has a bisque head and cloth body. It is in fine condition, fully clothed, but we are not certain if these are all original. Thank you for any information of values. W.K.

ANSWER: Putnam Bye-Lo dolls like yours are carrying price tags from around $350 upward nowadays.

QUESTION: For several years now, I've been trying to find an old telephone reasonable. When I brought home a Cushman phone last spring, I know my wife thought I had a loose connection or two, so the old phone has been in the barn ever since.

This is a very old phone with a transmitter cabinet which is 6 by 7½ inches. It has a brass mouthpiece in front of a cast iron transmitter which holds a carbon disk. The upper box housed the generator and ringer, and the bottom held the battery. Would you be kind enough to tell me what an old phone like mine might be worth. All parts appear to be original and the wood has never been refinished. I paid less than a hundred dollars for this phone. M.R.

ANSWER: You got a bargain! A Cushman wall phone is a rare find-today. Collectors don't hesitate to pay $250 and up when an example becomes available.

QUESTION: Can you tell us about the origin of a beautiful old vase 6¾ inches high, that was given to us last Christmas, by a relative. This vase resembles a large ear of white corn, having green leaves at the base. I will enclose a sketch which might prove helpful, but I am no artist. Mrs. L.B.

ANSWER: Your vase was made by W.L. Libbey & Son's, Toledo, Ohio. The pattern is "Maize," and it was designed by Joseph Locke. The ware was offered to the public in 1889, and was produced in opaque white, ivory and a pale celadon green glass. This is a mold blown glassware, intended to resemble kernels of corn with leaves in color — blue, green or brown — which fan out at the base.

Stamps in the news

Diamonds, precious stones and jewelry have appeared on postage stamps of many countries. But never before has a jewelry firm been honored and shown on a stamp. That is, until this year when the Netherlands Antilles commemorated the 50th anniversary of Spritzer and Fuhrmann, the largest jeweller in the Netherlands, according to the World Wide Philatelic Agency. The company is designated as "Purveyor to Her Majesty Queen Juliana of the Netherlands."

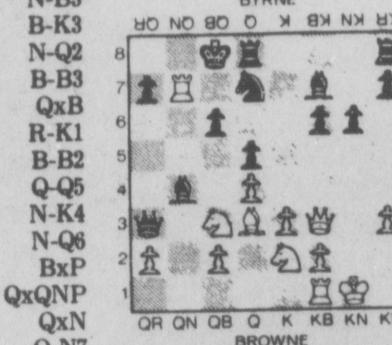

The 20-cent stamp depicts the carillon of bells adorning the main buildings of Spritzer and Fuhrmann. The 40-cent features the Caribbean archipelago as the center of the Americas. The highest value of 55 cents symbolizes the close tie between the company and the country.

The Republic of China on Taiwan has honored the 60th anniversary of the International Association of Lions Clubs with the issuance of two new stamps. The central design fea-

'Broken' bones a big risk

Skateboards cause injuries

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

Americans were eating 200 more calories per day in 1974 than they were nine years earlier. That's enough to put 20 more pounds on you in a year, unless you exercised more.

So reports the American Dietetic Association in a "White Paper" concerned mainly with fats in the diet. It says most of the increased calorie intake came from fats. It cites some dietary goals recommended by experts to improve health: Reduce overall consumption of fat. Reduce saturated fats. Reduce cholesterol intake.

Skateboard Injuries

The injury toll from skating last year was more than 70,000 broken bones, cuts and sprained ankles, says the American Podiatry Association.

To make it safer, the association advises that riders wear rubber-soled tennis shoes or similar footgear that provides traction. Further, beginners should learn the basic moves first, and everyone should check the skating surface carefully for smoothness.

Pets ... And Children

So far as health is concerned, "children are quite safe with a pet. A visiting aunt can give them a cold more easily than the puppy who kisses them," a dermatologist declares.

"Humans catch diseases from other humans, and puppies from other puppies," says Dr. George H. Muller, clinical professor of dermatology at Stanford University School of Medicine, who also specializes in small animal Dermatology.

He assures parents that the dog or cat that has been a household pet for years will almost never transmit a contagious disease to humans. Common scabies infections are contracted from fleas, ticks and lice, usually from poor sanitary conditions while the animal is young, he adds.

Lowering Blood Pressure

Vigorous exercise is a good prescription for reducing high blood pressure, says a physician who knows about it first hand.

Dr. J. Robert Cade of the University of Florida College of Medicine reports he and associates were able to control 90 percent of 80 patients with high blood pressure through exercise alone, or with smaller doses of their usual medicine, after a month of exercise.

The exercise involved either running 20 minutes, swimming 20 laps or bicycling for about an hour, three to five nights a week.

Dr. Cade says he learned about this personally when his son, then 16, entered a Florida State Science Fair with an experiment on effects of exercise on the cardiovascular system of "a fat old man"—his father. Regular running brought Dr. Cade's blood pressure down from 150-105, which is rather high, to 100-60, which is very good.

BIG BILL WALTON:
Not Your Typical American Sports Hero

By Barry Abramson

Earlier in his career, basketball star Bill Walton was known as a radical and a nonconformist. He was unhappy playing for the Portland Trail Blazers, and his attitude was reflected in unfriendly letters to his team office and to newspapers. Now there is a new Bill Walton, captain of his team and indeed a team player. He is popular, even loved by those who follow the Trail Blazers' fortunes. What caused the change? That is the story of this untypical sports hero.

What If Your Child Joins A Cult?

Since the late 1960's scores of new religions have appeared on the American scene. The Hare Krishnas and the Moonies are enticing young and desperate people to join their organizations, and many parents are trying unusual, sometimes illegal, ways to get their children back. These cults are rich and well entrenched, and rescuing young members is not easy.

Bryant & Co. Celebrates 43rd Anniversary

Bryant & Co. Jewelers in Claremont will celebrate its 43rd anniversary today with a special showing of 3,000 mountings and a display of selected loose diamonds.

The doors of the jewelry specialty store were opened in 1934 by its founder, Al Bryant. In 1955, he sold the company to the late Martin Thomas. His son Alan Thomas, now owns the business that moved to 987 W. Foothill Blvd., Claremont in 1975.

Personalized service and custom jewelry designs are the trademarks of one of the oldest jewelry stores in the Pomona valley.

"We are a little different from most jewelry stores. We create many of our own designs in jewelry sold in the store, and also work from the ideas of our customers. They describe the design they want, we sketch it and make it by hand from the sketch," said Thomas.

This service is a time-consuming task that requires both knowledge and special training. Thomas, whose particular interest is with the design aspect of the business, is a gemologist and is qualified to appraise fine jewelry and identify precious stones. He obtained special education for the specialty at the Gemological Institute of America in Los Angeles, and holds the title of Registered Jeweler with the American Gem Society.

Custom-designed jewelry may be made from stones that have been inherited, are loose from other settings or are in other pieces of the customer's jewelry. Bryant's has a variety of custom settings available in the store.

In addition to the designing, Bryant's features a line of genuine stone jewelry and diamond jewelry, and special order remounts. Orange Blossom diamond engagement rings have been featured in the store for many years.

Bryant's also maintains a complete watch department, with Rolex, Omega, and Seiko watches to choose from.

Black Hills gold jewelry, in colors of pink, green and yellow, from South Dakota is included in numerous designs, and a large selection of loose precious stones, emeralds, Sapphires, rubies and diamonds, are carried as well as jade and opal jewelry.

Bryant & Co. also offers a complete repair service for watches and jewelry, and buys and sells antique and estate jewelry. Store hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays.

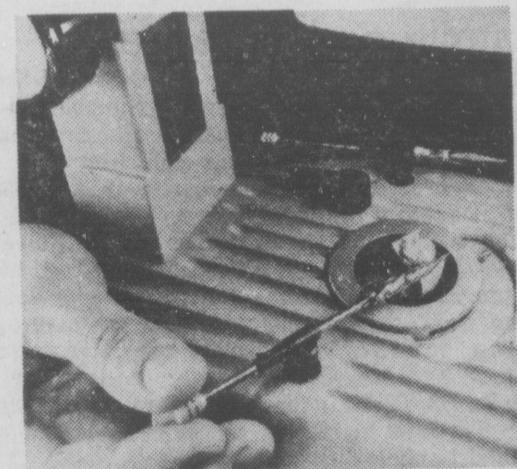

Besides Alan Thomas, the Bryant staff includes Florence Thomas, Iva Uribe, a 30-year employee trained in all facets of the business, Betty Lesh, and Harry Culp a master watchmaker.

Lion Country Safari amid an ambitious expansion program

"Look, Ma, no cavities!" These youngsters are part of one of world's largest cheetah collections.

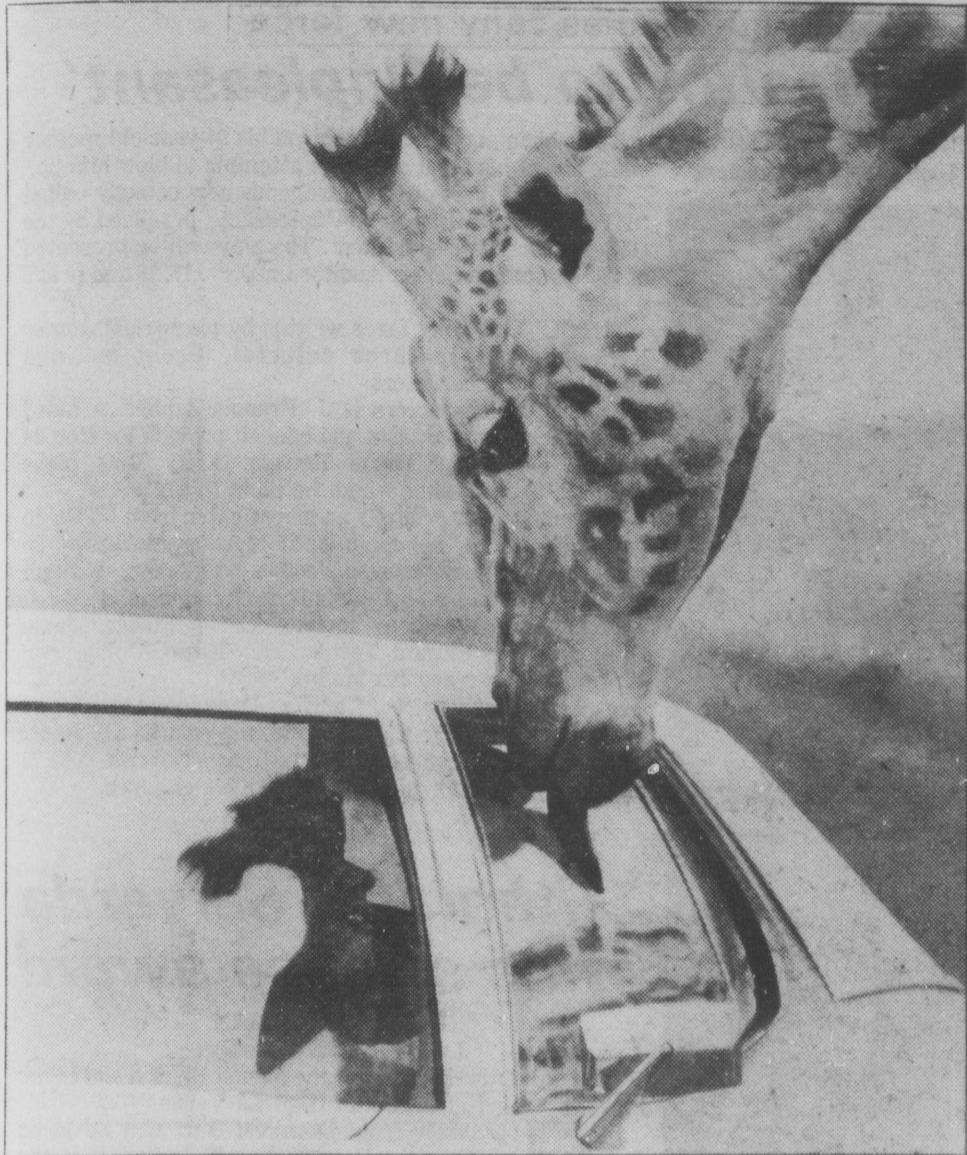

The king of beasts and other residents of Lion Country Safari provide field day for photogs.

Young spider monkey objects to sharing his tree with a lion cub.

ON THE COVER

Two ostriches, among thousands of animals and fowl at Lion Country Safari, seem to be announcing the recently completed expansion and renovation program at the 500-acre wildlife preserve and theme-amusement park in Orange County.

Shaun Cassidy of the "Hardy Boys" television series gets some instruction from director Joe Pevney during filming of an episode.

For the past several months, amid the roar of the lion and the screech of exotic birds at Lion Country Safari, has been heard the sound of hammer and saw as the African wildlife preserve and theme-amusement park carried on an expansion and renovation program.

And the end is not in sight. Future plans call for new thrill rides and other amusement attractions and possibly a monorail through the park. The amphitheater will be expanded and a Fiberglass exhibit of dinosaurs will be installed. One of the monsters will be 90 feet long and as high as a two-story building.

Change is a way of life at the Orange County wildlife refuge — the thousands of animals, birds and reptiles see to that. Among the hundreds of species in residence, births are recorded almost daily, from tiny birds to rhinoceroses. Two of the latter were born this summer — one now three months old, and one just a month. The park is justifiably proud of its cheetah population, an endangered species. It is the largest cheetah collection in the world. Other recent additions were three gnus, some ostrich chicks, a chimpanzee, llama, hippopotamus and several zebra colts.

Among the improvements completed this summer or nearing completion, is the expansion of the baby animal nursery and children's petting zoo in Safari Camp to include a larger display area and a greater variety of animals.

Entering this section of the camp, young visitors will find themselves in an authentic African tribal village, complete with thatched-roof huts and a watering hole. Within the confines of the village roam emu, llamas, mouflon sheep, young eland, oryx, zebra, goats, chickens and Sicilian asses. The young animals are domesticated and can be petted and fed by visitors. The village also includes a capybara exhibit and rotating wildlife exhibits featuring young animals born in the park's wildlife preserve — ostriches, lion cubs, cheetahs and young grizzly bears.

The display windows in the animal nursery have been enlarged and restructured to exhibit animals in a natural setting. Visitors will see young hyenas, spider monkeys, a kinkajou, swamp cat and ocelot.

The park has also expanded its free-flight bird aviary, which features ponds, waterfalls and a wide variety of waterfowl and bird species living in their native habitat. Extensive landscaping has provided an impressive display of rare and exotic plants, trees and shrubs. The specially designed, temperature - controlled reptile house adjacent to the bird aviary is home for lizards and reptiles from all continents.

The feature attraction of Lion Country Safari, of course, is the tour of the jungle trails of the wildlife preserve in the visitor's own car. He will see lions, Bengal tigers, cheetah, zebra, elephants, ostriches, giraffes, rhinoceroses, hippopotamuses, chimpanzees, a variety of antelope species and numberless birds. Recent additions to the collection of free-roaming animals are North American black bears and grizzly bears.

The animals, often as curious about the visitors as vice versa, often come up to the cars, to nuzzle tires, lick the windshield and peer through the car window. Photographers have a field day. A narrated cassette tape-tour describes the animals encountered on the way.

Live entertainment is offered regularly at the Safari Camp entertainment center — Bob

At the Safari Camp are the Rondavel Restaurant, snack stands, African arts and curio shop, and the Treetops Lounge and View Platform.

Lion Country Safari also offers free picnic areas, free parking, and overnight accommodations for recreational vehicles at a modest fee. All of the shows, exhibits, tours, rides and attractions are included in the admission price — $4.95 for adults, $2.95 for children three to 11.

The park is open daily, rain or shine, from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. when the last car is admitted. It is located off the Santa Ana Freeway at the Sand Canyon exit in the Laguna Hills near Irvine.

Branch's "Feathery Follies" bird revue in the Afritheater, Barbara Lewis' "Animals of the World" live animal show in the Jungle Castle and other attractions. Visitors are also invited to enjoy the African-theme -rides — Zambezi River Cruise, Kenya Express Train, Hippo Pedalboats on Lake Shanalee, and the African Auto Trek.

Elephant wants to put his trunk in the van.

Garey's Lopez is voted freshman class president

Margie Lopez has been elected president of the freshman class at Garey High School in Pomona. She also will serve on the student council.

Other officers chosen in freshman class elections were Beverly Moore, vice president; Kim Dean, secretary; and Denise Sampson, treasurer.

Elected to the student council were Veronica Bell, involvement commissioner (noon activity program); Sharon Delehant, communications commissioner (off-campus publicity); Denise Hollier, rally commissioner; and Monica Haire, inter-club council president.

Sheri Woods and Dee Ann Guth. A fifth member of the court, Liz Griffith, was absent when the photograph was taken.

A has-been actor tries to poison his 94-year-old mother while one of his blind admirers attempts to blow him up.

This is only part of the outrageous new comedy called "UTBU or Unhealthy to be Unpleasant" produced by the Ganesha Drama Department. The play will be presented at the Education Center Auditorium Nov. 17, 18 and 19 at 8 p.m.

"UTBU" is a zany farce written by playwright James Kirkwood. It features colorful, eccentric and overdramatic characters.

Among the characters is J. Francis Amber, a faded stage star whose sarcasm and conceit provide for riotous humor, played by David Beeken. Kitty Hutt plays Amber's aged mother whom he plots to kill.

This conspiracy prompts an investigator from UTBU to put an end to any unhappiness by blowing up Amber. To perform this humanitarian deed a blind man, William Uggins, played by Steve Johnson, is called in.

Other cast members include Carla Fisher, Janie Brandenberg, Crystal Tarbor, Bob Fazio, Cindy Pye, Virginia Salazar and Ed Mello.

Student director is Cecilia Brandenberg. Stage managers are Diane Chamberlain and Andrea Du Rant.

Tickets may be purchased at the door. The cost is $1.75 for adults, $1.50 for students and $1 for children.

Lutheran's Salverda wins science award

By LYNN HERMAN
Lutheran Correspondent

Paul Salverda is winner of the annual Bausch and Lomb Science Award at Lutheran High La Verne.

Salverda, a senior from Diamond Bar, will be 17 on Dec. 15. His father, the Rev. William Salverda, is in the clergy tax service. His mother, Nancy, is principal of First Baptist School, Pomona. He has three sisters and one brother.

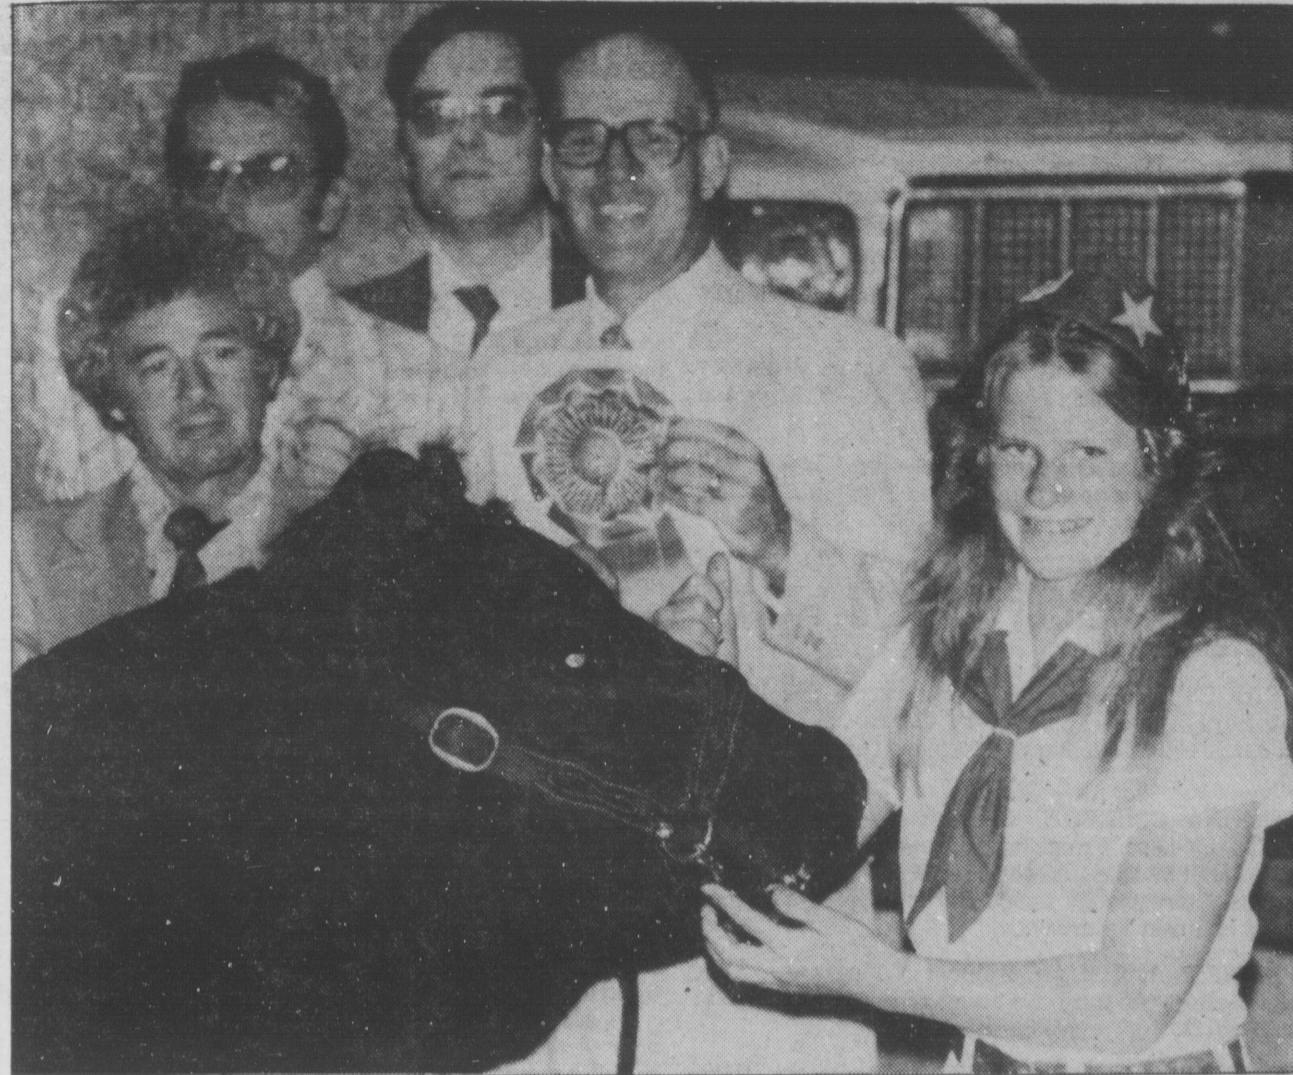

Salverda has taken all the science courses offered at Lutheran High, and presently is a teacher's assistant in biology. He attends a physics and a chemistry class at Mt. San Antonio College. He is a four-year member of CSF, band, and Naval Science. In his sophomore year, he was chapel committee chairman, and his junior year saw him as ASB treasurer.

Salverda intends to be a dentist, and attend UCLA, UC Riverside or the College of Idaho.

As winner of the science award, Salverda is eligible to compete for one of several four-year Bausch and Lomb Science Scholarships, at the University of Rochester in New York. Scholarship winners are selected on merit. Bausch and Lomb is a world-wide manufacturer of ophthalmic products, analytical and scientific instruments and sports optics.

"The Bausch and Lomb Science Award is especially significant," according to the Rev. William Hampton, principal, who made the presentation, "because it recognizes the senior student at our school who has attained the highest scholastic standing in science subjects."

The place and date for this meeting had to be changed because of the elections Tuesday.

Those 9 to 19 years of age are invited to join the club. To sign up, a new member must be accompanied by a parent.

Additional information concerning membership may be obtained by calling 599-5287 or 593-6546.

Currently club officers are Liz Sutton, president; Margaret Munro, vice president; Nancy Wachel, secretary; Kathy Johnson, treasurer; Pam Rippens, supplies; Paula Bauer, reporter; Paul Rippens, song leader; Suzanne Offutt, refreshments; and Peggy Ice, photographer.

Alta Loma's Eagle Scout badge is bestowed homecoming theme set

"Could It Be Magic," by Barry Manilow will be the theme of the Alta Loma High School homecoming dance tonight in the Student Center of Mt. San Antonio College in Walnut.

There will be dancing from 8:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. Cost will be $6 without ASB cards and $5.50 with ASB cards.

The queen and her escort will reign over the dance, having been crowned during the halftime of the Alta Loma-Gladstone game Friday. The homecoming was chosen by members of the senior class. The student body voted for the queen Friday.

The court is composed of Leah Felty, Barbie Lubeck, Kim Moore, Linda Saddlemire and Denise Wolford. In addition, Lotte Hansen and Rosa Road Rodarte, foreign exchange students from Denmark and Mexico, respectively, are honorary princesses.

Dierking earns 'court of honor'

John Robert Dierking II, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dierking of Claremont, Tuesday was awarded his Eagle Scout badge during Court of Honor ceremonies at El Roble Intermediate School.

Dierking became a Cub Scout while living in Alaska. He joined the Boy Scout program in Germany, where he lived five years before moving to Claremont, where he is a member of Troop 405.

Dierking has served as a den chief, patrol leader, senior patrol leader and troop newspaper editor. He was selected for troop leadership training, Order of the Arrow and attended campouts with troops in other countries.

He has received the International Crest and attended the U.S. Bicentennial Jamboree in Geneva, Switzerland, in July 1976.

For his Eagle project, Dierking conceived and implemented a program fostering German-American relations. He collected books from this country to present to English classes at the Kurfurst-Ruprecht Gymnasium in Neustadt, Germany.

Also, he was involved in the collection and distribution of magazines to patients at the American hospital in Landstuhl, Germany.

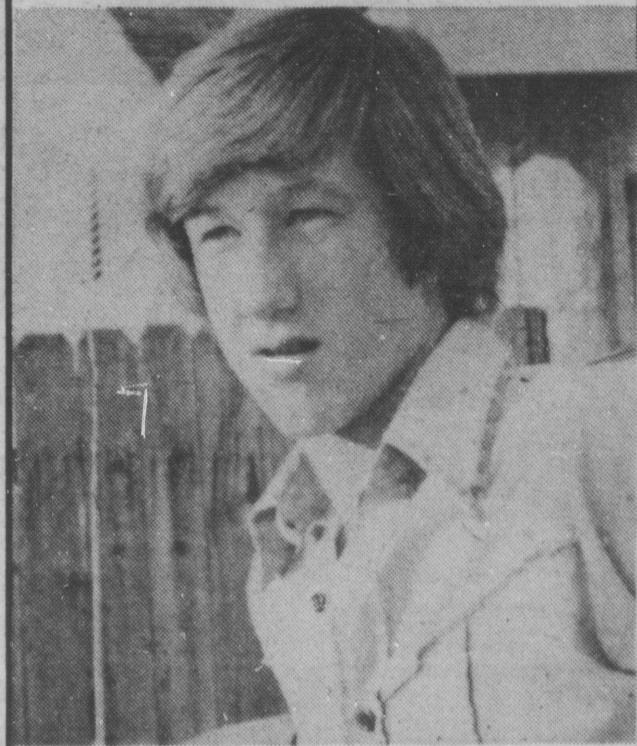

Dierking has been active in sports and music. He is a sophomore at Claremont High School. He is a member of speech and debate clubs and the California Scholarship Federation.

Today not up to yesterday

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA)

— Robert Metz has written a book about NBC's Today show. And after a year or so of research and studying the show, he has come to the conclusion that Today is in big trouble.

He doesn't say that in his book, "The Today Show." The text is strictly a biography of the show and all the people involved in it down through the years. But, when you speak to him about the show, he has no hesitation in expressing his opinion.

"Yes," he says, "Today is in serious trouble. I think the show's highest years were when Frank McGee and Barbara Walters were in charge. The death of McGee and the subsequent departure of Walters left the show in the hands of the news department.

"Pat Weaver, who created the show originally, felt it should be as much entertainment as news. But now the news people have it, and there isn't much entertainment any more."

Metz feels that the present Today people, Tom Brokaw and Jane Pauley, are not as "electric" as some of the others who have hosted the show.

"Gene Shalit has the electricity," Metz says, "and I think NBC would be smart to put him in charge. I also think they would be smart to take the show back outside, like it used to be. Maybe they could originate around Lincoln Center, where they could put on some ballet companies, some orchestras, perhaps some scenes from plays."

But the chances are slim that NBC will turn Today over to Robert Metz, no matter how sharp his ideas are. It's just as well. Metz wouldn't take the job, even if it was offered to him. He's happy where he is, as a financial columnist on the New York Times.

"I don't really know how I got there," he says. "I've always been fascinated with the entertainment world. I did some acting when I was younger. But I find I like writing about financial things. I alternate between books on entertainment and books on financial subjects."

At the moment, he's working on two books. One is in the area of economics — a learned book about prices. The other is a natural follow-up to the Today book — one on the Tonight show.

Hollywood society turned out en masse for the swankiest of the swanky events — the opening of the new Gucci Galleria. At Gucci's in Beverly Hills, they have built perhaps the most elegant (and expensive) store in the world.

To reach the new Galleria, where they have things like $11,000 handbags on sale (the gold-and-diamond chain comes off and can be worn as a necklace), customers have to take a gold-and-crystal-and-leather elevator. Some special customers will have special keys, so they can go up themselves.

The opening of the Galleria was one of those sumptuous affairs — fashion show, champagne, music, food, and, mostly, all those beautiful people.

The guest list ranged from politicians to policemen (the police chiefs of both Los Angeles and Rome were there), from millionaires to models, from bankers to beautiful blondes.

Many of Hollywood's Italian colony were there, plus lots of women who simply liked to gawk at all those beautiful bags, luggage, dresses, jewelry and shoes. It was an elegant affair, and Hollywood loves elegance.

Pidgin talk

Pidgin English, spoken by an estimated 50 million people around the world, originated in the 17th century when traders along the South China coast bartered for tea, silks, ivory, and jade. "Pidgin" reputedly is the Chinese contraction of "business English." At least three-fourths of the words are derived from English but their pronunciation has been so changed and the grammar so simplified that only students of pidgin English can understand it.

Art grants enliven students' works . . .

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

Two unique programs in the arts — one for elementary and one for secondary students — are offered this year in the Pomona Unified School District because of separate grants from the California Arts Council.

Elementary students may be exposed to the rudimentary styles of theater, from puppetry to live productions through the Diamond Bar Children's Theater, while secondary students may view the works of Slimen W. Maloof, an Alta Loma designer and craftsman.

The "Artists in the Schools" project will not touch every child in the district, but officials believe it will complement the nearly $200,000 fine arts program instituted this year.

Both Maloof and Ross

Clark, director of the children's theater, have wide backgrounds in their respective fields.

Clark holds fine arts degrees from USC and UCLA and has performed on Broadway and in summer stock in such plays as "The Subject Was Roses," "Dames at Sea," "The Lion in Winter," "Oliver," "The Music Man," and "Bye Bye Birdie."

In Southern California, his Wings of Fame, Inc., has presented shows for Busch Gardens, KCOP, and the Los Angeles

ARTISAN — Pomona Unified School District artist-in-the-schools Slimen Maloof works on the fine points of a crafted rocking chair, such as the one shown below.

County Parks and Recreation Department.

He joined with his partner, Rey O'Day, in developing the Diamond Bar Children's Theater, Inc., in 1972.

His goal in introducing Pomona children to the theater is not to have them go into the business, but to merely develop an appreciation for the theater and "perhaps make a child more interested in going up before a group of people to give a talk or book report."

His instruction will include possibly only two performances during the year, and much of the class time will be spent working with puppets and rudimentary aspects of the theater in the elementary classroom, he said.

Maloof, 28, the son of a distinguished furniture designer, involves his work mostly with chairs and some tables. These are nearly always composed solely of wood, characterized by free-flowing lines and unique meticulous joinery; that is, it's difficult to tell where one piece of wood begins and another ends.

Maloof is meticulous and his works — some 35 to 50 produced a year — command a respectable price.

Aside from the experience of seeing a craftsman at work, those students involved in his furniture construction and design symposium will learn of the business opportunities and problems a person of his style may encounter.

Maloof plans to take one or two projects from start to completion during the school year. Working primarily with black walnut (his material for a single chair may cost $150), Maloof will show students the entire process — from the early cutting and preliminary sanding of pieces to the truly fine finishing work of the craftsman.

In both programs, grants of $6,000 each have been given the district. The district is expected to add $2,000 to both projects to assist with the artists' salaries and cost of materials.

District Supt. Charles Carpenter said receiving the grants is an honor for the district. "I am sure this will benefit hundreds of students."
